WEDNESDAY EVENING, MARCH 22

OYSTER OMLET—One dozen large fresh oysters, chopped into very small pieces, half a teaspoonful of salt sprinkled on them, and then let them stand in their own liquor half an hour. Beat six eggs, the yolks and whites apart—the former to a firm, smooth paste, the latter to a solid froth. Add to the yolks a table-spoonful of rich, sweet cream, pepper and salt in sufficient quantity, and then stir in the whites in. Put an outer and a half of butter in a frying pan. When it is thoroughly melted and begins to fry pour in your egg mixture, and add as quickly as possible the oysters. Do not stir, but with a broad-bladed metal knife lift, as the eggs set, the omelet from the bottom of the pan, to prevent its sticking. In five minutes it will be done. Place a hot dish underneath, turn the pan over with the knife side uppermost upon the dish, eat without delay.

CLUE JOKES ON A YOUNG FARMER—A young farmer of Clintonville, Ulster county, N. Y., became deeply enamored of a young lady, a stranger in the neighborhood, who was temporarily staying in the village, and, after courtship had been suspended for some days, popped the all-important question, received "yes" for an answer, and insisted on the marriage ceremony being performed the following evening. According to a large number of friends were invited, and the young couple were made one by justice of the peace of the neighborhood. Immediately upon the conclusion of the ceremony the bride was surrounded by her gentle friends, all whom had been upon the scene, giving up their due respects of the health of the bride, and the bride-room hastened her steps, at least, not having an entire garter.

The truth of the matter is that the bride was a pretty boy, and who, let us hope, the room where he exchanged his garments and mingled with the crowd, and enjoyed the fun. The groom will never get over the rather practical joke which his friends played upon him.
